

Can you darken pdf files

I'm not robot!

Darkening light PDF files can make those files easier to read, and it can also unify a PDF's color scheme with your business' logo or other graphics. A quick solution to darkening involves setting an accessibility option in Reader. However, this approach doesn't darken PDF files themselves. A factor to consider when darkening a PDF file is content type: text or image. You can darken all document text quickly with a word processor. Darkening images is possible with a PDF editor like Acrobat. This task may be time consuming since each image must be darkened individually. With Accessibility Options Open in Reader a PDF that you need to darken, and then select "Preferences" from the Edit menu. Click the "Accessibility" item in the Categories pane of the Preferences dialog box. Check the "Replace Document Colors" check box, and then click a dark color from either or both of the following controls: Page Background and Document Text. Click "OK" to see the effect of your color changes. Text With Word Use a service such as Nitro PDF, PDFOnline, or Zamzar to convert a light PDF file to an RTF or DOC file type (links in Resources). Open the converted document in Word, and then press "Ctrl-H" to open the "Find and Replace" window. Click the "More" button, and then click the "Format" button. Click "Style" and then "Default Paragraph Font" from the Find Style dialog box. Click "OK" and click in the Replace text box. Select "Normal" for the replacement style, just as you used the Format button to set the Find style. Click "Replace All" to assign the Normal style to all paragraphs. Press "Ctrl-A" to select all document text, and then press "Ctrl-Space" to reset all character styles to the default Normal style. Since Normal's color is black, all text in the document will take on that color. Background and Images With Acrobat Open in Acrobat a PDF whose background and images you'd like to darken. Press "Ctrl-K" to open the Preferences dialog box. Click the "TouchUp" item from the Categories pane, and then click the "Choose Image Editor" button. Select your system's image editor, and then close all open dialog boxes. Click the "Tools" command from the toolbar, and then click the "Pages" heading. Click the "Add Background" command of the Background subhead, and click a dark color from the From Color swatch. Click "OK" to view the dark background. Click the "Edit Object" command of the Edit Text pane, and then click an image you'd like to darken. Right-click the mouse and select "Edit Image" to open your default image editor. Use the editor's brightness tools to darken the image, and then save the image and close the image editor. Return to Acrobat to view the darkened image. Page 2 PowerPoint contains border options to help you enhance a slide and its contents in your presentation. For example, a colored line set at a wide width can frame a photograph of your newest product shown to your clients. PowerPoint's Drawing Tools options lets you update these borders with a few clicks of the mouse to adapt to a theme or style that suits your project. Open the PowerPoint presentation and navigate to the slide where you want to insert the frame. Click in the placeholder to display the Drawing Tools ribbon with its Format tab. Click the "Format" tab on the Drawing Tools ribbon. Click the "More" arrow button on the gallery of thumbnail images in the Shape Styles group to view all the border thumbnails. Click the preferred thumbnail of the border to frame the placeholder. Right-click the framed placeholder to open a list of options, and then click "Format Shape" to open the Format Shape pane. Click the "Fill & Line" button that displays a tipping paint can icon to open the list of options. Click to select an option or type a value in the fields in the Line section to update this border. For example, click the "Color" button to open the sample color chart and then click the preferred color sample. Other editing options include adjusting the border width by typing a value in the Width field. Click the border to display the pull handles, and then click and drag these handles to resize the border on the slide. Here are a few reliable options, whether you are on a PC or Mac, to darken a PDF. Adobe Acrobat is one of the most reliable options for darkening PDF documents. To darken PDFs with Adobe Acrobat, follow these steps: Open the PDF in Adobe Acrobat. Select Preferences from the Edit portion of the top menu. In the Categories section, select TouchUp and then Choose Image Editor. You are prompted to open an image editor. If you have Adobe Photoshop, it is chosen by default. In the toolbar, choose Tools and then Pages. From Background, select the Add Background option. You are prompted to choose a color from the color palette. Choose a dark color and click OK. In the Edit Text option, select Edit Object. Click the part of the PDF you want to darken. Edit the object with Photoshop, GIMP or another image editing tool that has options to adjust the contrast or change the brightness. To get there, go to Tools > Content Editing > Edit Text and Images and right-click on the page to edit in with your image editor. Save the file and close your image editor. Return to Acrobat where the image should be darker. In Photoshop, an easy fix to create a one-page PDF is to create an RGB file, place the PDF into the doc, then duplicate the layer and use the blending mode Multiply, which punches up the text while still maintaining the quality. If it is still too dark, you can dupe and multiply the duped layer to create a double layer. You can also use Adobe Reader's Accessibility options to darken PDFs. However, this approach is only to darken your version of the document so you can read it, and not a permanent way to darken a document that you send and share with others. Open Adobe Reader. Go to Edit in the top menu bar and then Preferences. Select Accessibility in the Categories section. Check the box next to Replace Document Colors. Select a darker color combination from the drop-down menu next to High Contrast Color Combinations or go to Custom Color and pick a darker color for the Page Background and Document Text. When done, click OK. You should now be able to see your changes to see whether they darkened the PDF document sufficiently or if you need to pick a darker color combination. If you are trying to edit a PDF on Mac, you can do so using the built-in Preview application by increasing the contrast on a PDF. Here is how to do it: Use Preview to open the PDF. Go to File > Export. In the Quartz Filter section, select Lightness Decrease. Save the file and reopen it. Your document should now be darker. Opening a PDF in Microsoft Word can often fix a document that is hard to read. Simply open the PDF in Word and it will convert the file to DOCX format, which you can save as is, or export as a new PDF. This itself should darken the text. If it does not, select the text and change it to black using the Font Color options. If there are images in the document, select an image, select Format, then Corrections and choose the Brightness/Contrast option that looks best. If the images are not being imported into Word, you can try converting your PDF to an image and then import it into Word using a free online tool like PDFtoimage.com or PDFelement software. If it is an option, the best course of action is usually to ask the person who scanned the document to rescan it using darker output settings. If this is not possible, you can try printing the PDF using darker output settings on your printer. It should come out at least somewhat darker. Then, take that document and re-scan it onto your computer and save it as a new PDF.
